

Geographies of GEOGRAPHY of Geographers

a LaGeS seminar series

'What is geography' or 'who is a geographer', is a contested question. The closest consensus would probably be the ambiguous notion that 'geography is what geographers do'. However, what geographers do, depend on the geographies they are situated in and are coming from. We intend to explore the internal complexities and contradictions of geography, its fluid boundaries, and diverse contexts, through this seminar series.

28 January 2022 11:00 AM CET Geography in the Time of Toxic Air
Rohit Negi, Ambedkar University, India

18 February 2022 11:00 AM CET Imagined Geographers
Alberto Vanolo, Università degli Studi di Torino, Italy

11 March 2022 11:00 AM CET Urban Political Ecology:
Where is the Geography?
Natasha Cornea, University of Birmingham, UK

1 April 2022 11:00 AM CEST Geographies of the UN Sustainable Development Goals: Case of the Ocean Goal
Mialy Andriamahefazafy, University of Portsmouth, UK

22 April 2022 11:00 AM CEST Beyond Dichotomies: Towards a Relational Approach of Spatialities
Nadine Cattani, CNRS, France

13 May 2022 11:00 AM CEST Navigating French Provincialism in Teaching and Research
Myriam Houssay Holzschuch, Université Grenoble Alpes, France

3 June 2022 3:00 PM CEST Geography to Postpone the End of the World
Luanda Vannuchi, Universidade Estadual Paulista, Brasil

17 June 2022 11:00 AM CEST Queer of Color Geographies: Race/Sexualities/Gender in Transnational Contexts
Alessandro Boussalem, University of Edinburgh, UK

TO REGISTER scan QR Code or access
<https://forms.gle/gztqM7JCHGBaUTu1A>

